Recalls Boyhood Days

Shades of Peanimore Cooper! Take a peek at the Winchester Repeating Arms booth at the Fiesta, when it is completed and then hark back, if you're a man, to the time when you sneaked off behind the barn or buried yourself in the hay-mow to read the Leather Stocking Tales and thrilled as you never have since with the daring deeds of the pioneers of the plain who, with their trusty rifles and with unerring aim, brought to earth the painted Indian.

As you stand before this wonderfully attractive booth and realize that many of the ancient Winchester rifles exhibited are the same weapons that were used by your forbears in defending their homes from the savages of the plain or in securing game for the pioneer larder, it is not a difficult task to re-create many exciting scenes of '49, or an even earlier period.

This exhibition that carries so realistically the atmosphere of the past, was brought to Torrance by the progressive hardware merchant, "Hardware" Reeve, who has spent much time and sent and received numberless letters and telegrams in an effort to secure this educational feature for the Fiesta. The exhibit is one that attracted universal attention at Monterey and is considered by many who have seen it to be one of the most noteworthy educational exhibits ever shown in the West.

The Winchester Repeating Arms Company, the oldest of its kind in this country, whose founders have supplied arms to soldiers in every war since the Revolution, recently absorbed the Simmons Manufacturing plant, makers of the "Keen Kutter" cutlery and tools and in the Winchester booth, that was donated for the purpose by Mr. Reeve, is a magnificent cost of arms of California, made from these tools, that has been shown to wondering crowds in all parts of the country, and is well worth seeing, both from an educational and artistic standpoint.

After weeks of correspondence and the bringing of commercial and financial pressure to bear, Mr. Reeve was able to secure the co-operation of the Winchester people in the scheme of showing to the visitors to the Torrance Fiesta this handsome and unique exhibit, and the greatest credit is due our local merchant for his untiring efforts in bringing so rare and expensive an exhibit to this city.
